

Bucharest

November 2014: The capital and largest city in Romania sometimes called little Paris. On the balcony of the old communist party headquarters in revolution square Nicolae Ceaușescu gave his last speech. The crowd turned on him and he fled. Three days later he and his wife were executed. He left behind an unfinished edifice later completed and renamed Parliament Palace. With 12 stories and over 1,100 rooms it is one of the biggest buildings in the world.

King Charles I

Palace of the savings Bank

Romanian Athenaeum

Romanian Athenaeum

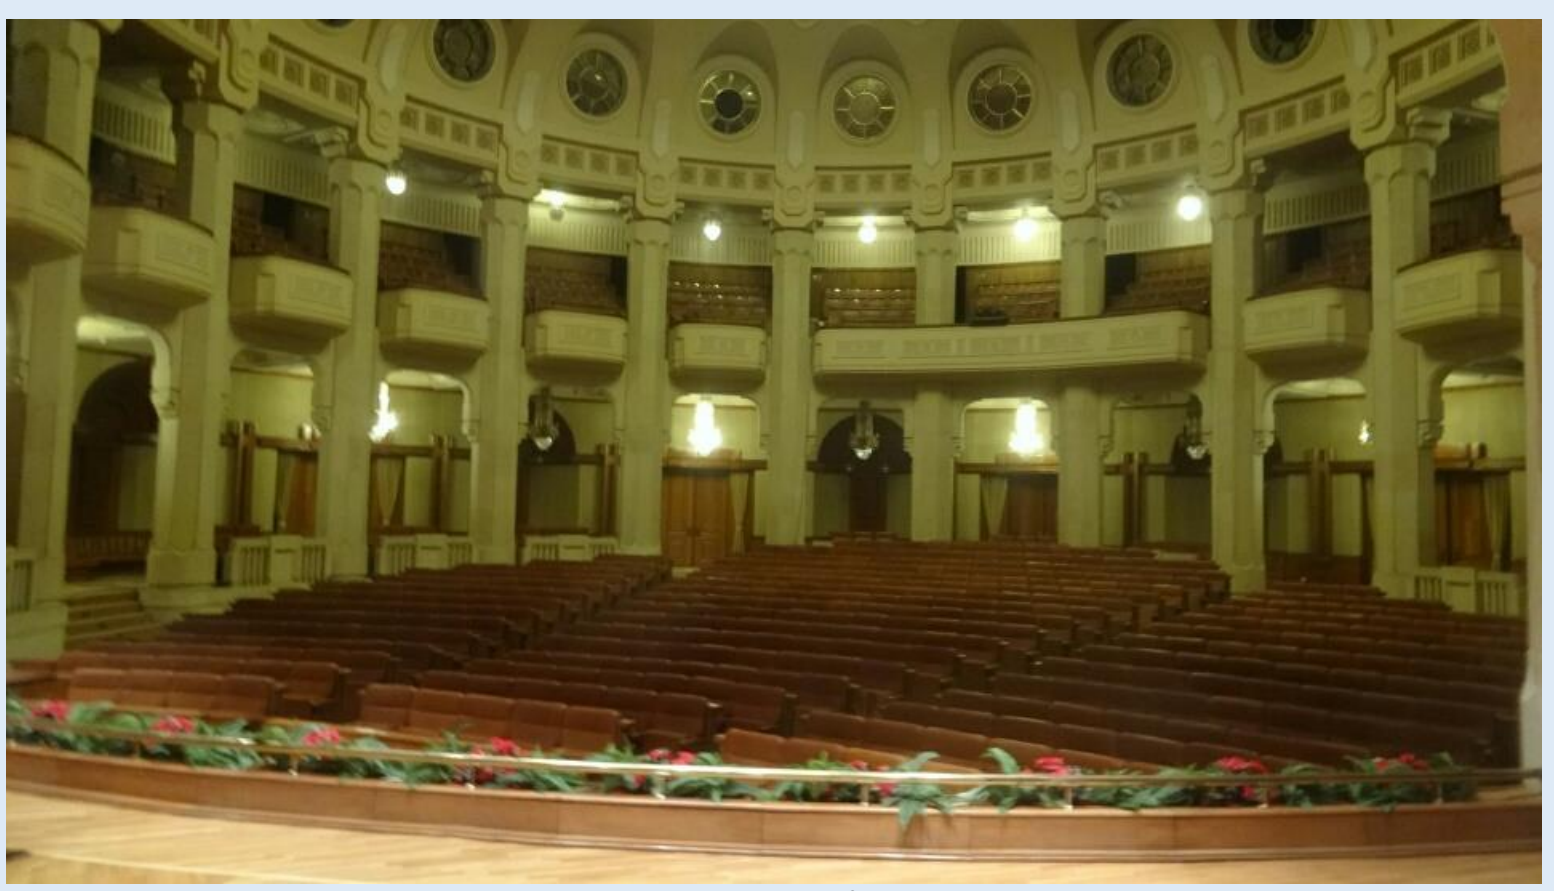

Revolution Square

Bulevardul Unirii

Parliament Palace

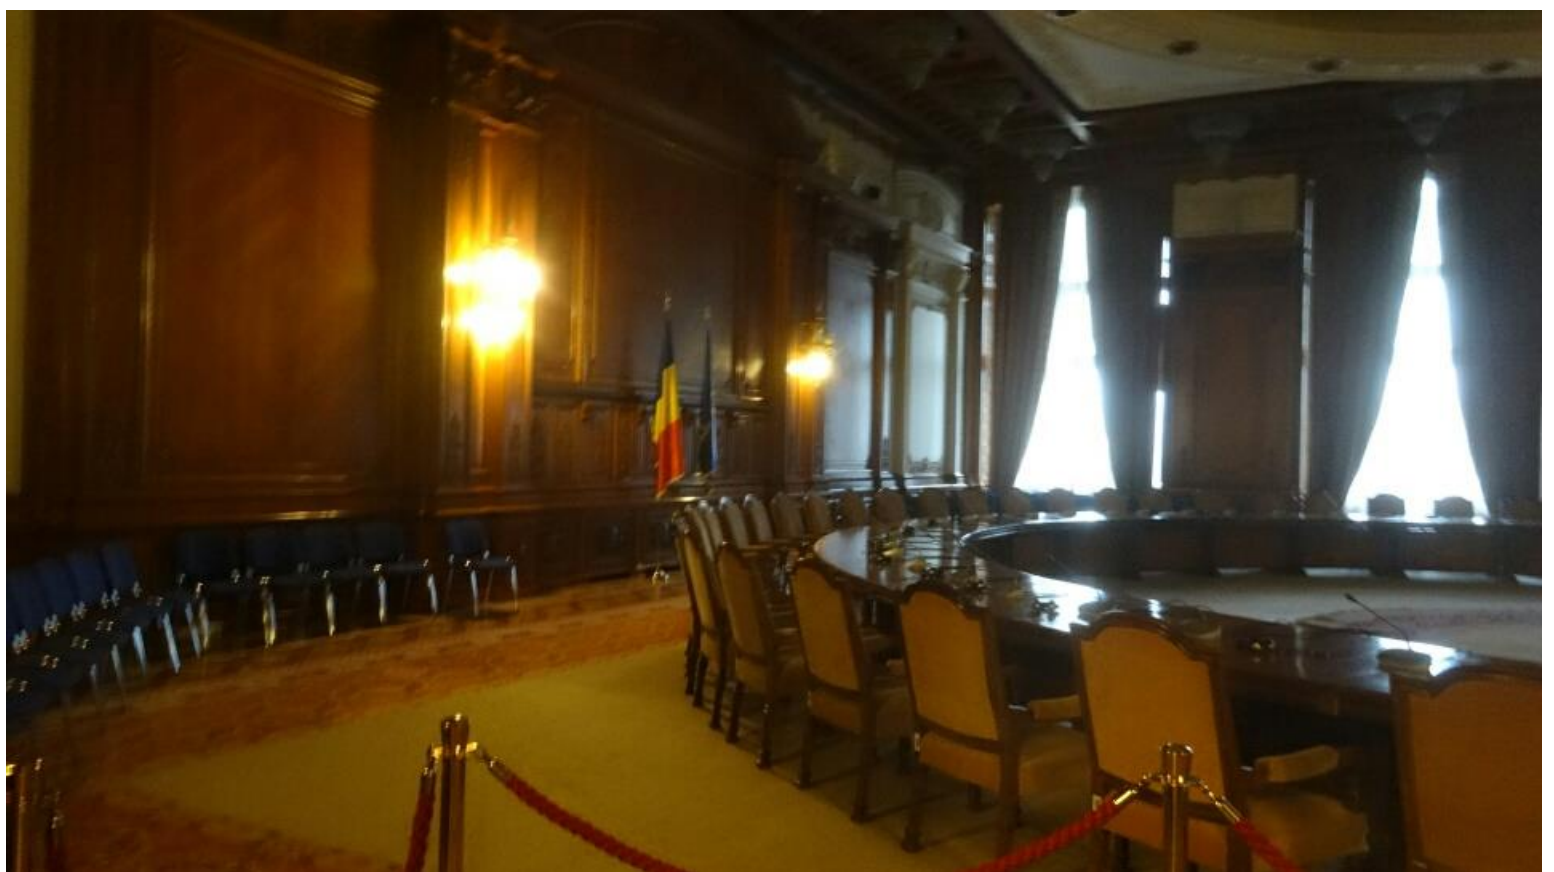

Parliament Palace Performance Hall

Hall Chandelier

Ballroom

Conference Room